

Exceptional wind power

The Danish wind industry accounts for approximately a third of the world market. By locating your company in Denmark it will benefit from being a part of a wind industry consisting of global leaders.

PIONEERING R&D AND INNOVATION

Denmark is the hub for global wind power development. It is an unrivalled centre of knowledge, where manufacturers, suppliers, research and educational institutions combine expertise, innovation and advanced technology into a strong industry. Most large wind turbine manufacturers have Danish R&D and production divisions, because of the world-class competences.

FLAGSHIP COMPANY: VESTAS

With a 20% global market share in 2009, and more than 38,000 wind turbines installed, Vestas is one of the world's leading suppliers of wind power.

www.vestas.com

FLAGSHIP PARTNERSHIP: MEGAVIND

Megavind is a partnership between companies, research institutions and the Danish Energy Agency, aimed at strengthening and maintaining the Danish lead in wind-energy innovation by creating a joint representation and strategy for innovation and research.

AMBITIOUS PLANS

The key to success for wind power in Denmark, is the government's determination to double the percentage of renewable energy by 2025, which will provide foreign companies with numerous business opportunities. This political objective is ambitious as Denmark is already powered by approximately 20% wind power.

"America produces less than 3% of our energy through wind and solar; now in comparison, Denmark produces 20% of their electricity by wind power."

Barack Obama, President of The United States.

USEFUL RESOURCES

The Danish Wind Industry Association, www.windpower.org

Risø, National Laboratory for Sustainable Energy, www.risoe.dtu.dk

Danish Energy Agency, Energistyrelsen, www.ens.dk

DONG Energy, www.dongenergy.com

Vattenfall, www.vattenfall.com